This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

MONTHLY SUMMARY

JULY TO DECEMBER, 1899.

WITH COMPARATIVE TABLES OF IMPORTS AND EXPORTS, BY ARTICLES AND COUNTRIES.

PREPARED IN

DIVISION OF CUSTOMS AND INSULAR AFFAIRS,
WAR DEPARTMENT.

WASHINGTON:
GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term "entry for consumption" is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties have been paid on the dutiable portion.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in force, approved May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be "the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment."

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture. The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

Weights.—In all tables published the ton weight is 2,240 pounds and the hundredweight is 112 pounds, unless indicated otherwise.

Customs districts.—Statements of imports, exports, and tonnage movement are shown by customs districts, which have a certain prescribed limit of territory with a port of entry.

NOTES.

Mr. George N. Murray, vice-consul at Magdeburg, Germany, under date of June 15, 1900, reports to the State Department that at the fiftieth annual convention of manufacturers and others, held at Magdeburg on May 29 to June 1, 1900, the following paper was read by Governmental Privy Councilor Professor Doctor Paasche, member of the Reichstag, who has recently studied conditions in Cuba:

CONDITION AND DEVELOPMENT OF THE CUBAN SUGAR INDUSTRY.

Dr. Paasche took the ground that the German sugar industry is a world industry in the strictest sense of the term, and that its welfare is therefore dependent upon the maintenance of the position which it now holds in the world's markets. All measures adopted for the purpose of influencing the home market, no matter how important they may be, will not, therefore, alone suffice to keep the industry in a healthy condition. German sugar producers must continue to keep their eyes fixed on all competing lands. Dr. Paasche's visit to the United States and Cuba was solely for the purpose of ascertaining if dangers threaten the German sugar industry there. The following is a summary of his remarks:

Formerly Cuba was the foremost sugar-producing land of the world and controlled the world's markets. Before the recent war it produced annually over 1,000,000 tons. This amount was reduced 25 per cent by the war, and the shortage was promptly filled by lands other than Germany. Russia, Austria, Java, etc., have largely increased their production. If Cuba regains its former productiveness, or, still worse, if it doubles its production, as some fear, the magnitude of the disaster which will result in the world's markets can not be overestimated. Fortunately, however, there is no immediate danger. The predictions concerning the moderate amount of this year's crop have been realized. Furthermore, there is little cause for fear in the near future. The results of the war in Cuba are frightful. For miles the traveler passes through desolated country, where houses and huts lie in ruins. Many factories have been destroyed, and the walls and broken machinery are overgrown with tropical vines. Where there were formerly broad fields of sugar cane there are now to be seen only weeds and rank vegetation. Laborers are scarce because many thousands of them starved or were murdered during the war. Capital and enterprise are also lacking, and without these factories can not be rebuilt and operated. In order to give new life to the industry, enormous capital will be needed, for business must be transacted on a very large scale if the industry is to be made profitable. At the same time, it must be admitted that hardly anywhere else in the Tropics are the conditions naturally so favorable for the sugar industry as in Cuba. The soil is fertile and the geographical position of the island is most suitable for commerce. The factories are large and well equipped with labor-saving machinery. Good, but not too cheap, raw materials are available, and the manufacturing process in use is effective and inexpensive. But, as has been said above, capital and enterprising spirit are needed. Even the Americans are afraid to invest money in this at present unsafe business, and therefore the manufacturers are obliged to pay a very high rate of interest on their debts. Most of them are in debt, as even those who did not suffer from fire during the war lost heavily in other ways.

IRISH TRADE WITH CUBA.

Consul Touvelle writes to the Department of State from Belfast, January 24, 1900:

There is a pronounced improvement in the textile trade here, which is attributed to the reopening of the Cuban market. Prior to the Spanish-American war manufacturers of linen were severely handicapped in the struggle to compete with Spanish producers, for two reasons: First, the high import duties on entrance into Cuba, and, second, the cost of remitting in bills of exchange on London, which the purchasers in Cuba had to pay in gold, while remittances to Spain were made in Spanish currency, which cost much less.

The result was that Belfast linens were driven out of the Cuban markets. Some of the merchants established factories in Spain in the effort to remedy this state of things, but without success. The result of the war, with the revised and justly executed tariff, alters the whole condition of affairs, and Belfast shippers are now able to compete successfully with Spanish or other foreign manufacturers. The improved condition of credit in Cuba is gratifying. It is remarkable that Cuban merchants have been, through the year, remitting promptly for their purchases, so that delay and difficulty are disappearing. To use the words of a local linen merchant, "All these things are surely a tribute to the wise, able, and enlightened government of that country by the United States."

DUTCH EXPORTS TO CUBA.

Mr. S. Listoe, consul at Rotterdam, under date of July 23, 1900, reports to the Department of State that in a letter from Havana to the Rotterdam Courant, the leading newspaper there, he finds the following hints to Dutch merchants as to certain classes of goods which the correspondent thinks could with advantage be exported to Cuba:

The information may or may not be new to American exporters, but he thought that goods which could be exported from the Netherlands to Cuba with advantage ought with still greater advantage be exported from the United States.

The writer says that, while a short time ago only gin, cheese, and earthenware were exported from the Netherlands to Cuba, now a great quantity of cacoa is sent, which, on account of its superior purity, is fast supplanting the American product. Dutch margarin is also finding a great sale, and cotton goods from Enschede, Holland, are taking the place of similar goods heretofore imported from Catalonia. Coarse bagging, used for baling tobacco, which heretofore has come from England and Germany, is now imported from the firm of Ter Horst & Co., at Ryssen.

These are, however, only a few of the articles for which a good market exists in Cuba. All of the following can be imported with profit: Tin wrappers (for cigar export), drugs and chemicals, bed quilts, linen and cotton goods, calico, cloth, shawls and ladies' furnishings, bottles, glass and earthen ware, twine and rope, candles, corks, paints and varnish, margarin, rice, tea, paper and cardboard, and straw covers (for bottles).

The Cubans are great lovers of cheese. In the week ended June 27 last there was imported into Cuba from the Netherlands 4,000 cases of Gonda cheese, valued at 40,000 florins ($16,000).

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term "entry for consumption" is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties have been paid on the dutiable portion.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in force, approved May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be "the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment."

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture. The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

Weights.—In all tables published the ton weight is 2,240 pounds and the hundredweight is 112 pounds, unless indicated otherwise.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term "entry for consumption" is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties have been paid on the dutiable portion.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in force, approved May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be "the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment."

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture. The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

Weights.—In all tables published the ton weight is 2,240 pounds and the hundredweight is 112 pounds, unless indicated otherwise.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term "entry for consumption" is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties have been paid on the dutiable portion.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in force, approved May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be "the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment."

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture. The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

Weights.—In all tables published the ton weight is 2,240 pounds and the hundredweight is 112 pounds, unless indicated otherwise.

Customs districts.—Statements of imports, exports, and tonnage movement are shown by customs districts, which have a certain prescribed limit of territory with a port of entry.

ECONOMIC CONDITIONS IN CUBA DURING 1899.

[From report of the Austrian consul-general at Habana.]

The total area of Cuba fit for the cultivation of cane as well as other industrial plants is estimated, according to the most recent data on the subject, at 518,492 caballerias (1 caballeria=33⅓ acres). Out of this total 45,000 caballerias are fit for the cultivation of cane, yet only 18,000 were under actual cultivation. Some experts assert that many cane fields furnish 80,000 to 90,000 arrobas of cane per caballeria (1 arroba=25.3664 pounds). The average production per caballeria, however, is taken to be about 50,000 arrobas of cane. This would mean a productive capacity for the entire island of 900,000,000 arrobas of cane, sufficient to yield about 1,000,000 tons of sugar. During previous years of peace, as in 1895, this figure was reached, and such and even better results are possible under a future stable government. Competition on the part of Cuba in the sugar market is to be regarded the more seriously since cost of production is lower there than in the other countries and the same soil is made to produce crops for several years without having to be replanted every year. This explains to a great extent the protective measures of the United States against the importation of Cuban sugar. The plantings of new cane fields undertaken in 1899 were quite considerable, but an exceptionally dry summer retarded the development of cane. Moreover, as owing to the lack of laborers the fields often did not get the proper care, as far as weeding was concerned, the sugar season of 1899–1900 is not likely to show better results than the preceding season.

The tobacco planters, like the sugar planters, had to suffer greatly from the destructive effects of the last war, but the exceptionally high tobacco prices of the year 1900 made it easier for them to obtain advances and thus make their soil again productive. This is shown by the large amount of planting done on tobacco plantations.

Mining is carried on almost exclusively in the province of Santiago de Cuba by two stock companies, the Juragua Iron Company, Limited, and the Spanish American Iron Company, both of which work with American capital. The ore, which is said to contain 60 to 64 per cent of metallic iron, is shipped to Philadelphia mainly. The presence of copper, lead, zinc, petroleum, silver, gold, and manganese ore has been discovered, and a number of American syndicates intend to begin mining operations.

The population, according to the census undertaken by the United States Government, was 1,573,000, which, for an area of approximately 44,000 square miles, must be regarded quite small. The immigration of laborers is therefore regarded quite desirable. However, Cuba can by no means be regarded a desirable place for Austro-Hungarian would-be emigrants, not only because of its unsatisfactory climate, but also of the great difficulties under which the chief agricultural operations on the sugar and tobacco plantations are carried on, and which require long experience and special knowledge. The food, which is but little nourishing, is another hardship for the immigrant, and to which he has to adapt himself. On the other hand, immigration from the Canary Islands, where the inhabitants are used to hard work in the fields, and could, therefore, better stand the Cuban climate, would be more desirable. However, the extension of the American immigration laws to Cuba has rendered considerably more difficult this as well as any other immigration. The only exception applies to the Chinese, as the American Chinese-exclusion act was not applied to Cuba. Chinese arrive as heretofore to the island by way of the United States. A regrettable feature of recent years is the emigration of a number of well-to-do Spaniards, who returned to Spain after the cessation of the Spanish rule, taking with them considerable capital (according to some estimates more than $100,000,000), thus depriving Cuban agriculture of one of its chief supports.

Among industrial occupations by far the most important are the sugar and cigar industries. During 1899 120 central factories were engaged in grinding cane. The manufacture of sugar, which is carried on mainly in the provinces of Habana, Matanzas, and Santa Clara, has been greatly hurt by the revolution. Expensive machinery, valued at millions of dollars, was destroyed and burned, and its restoration will take years, as many of the parties concerned have not sufficient means for replacing it.

The cigar and cigarette manufacturers had likewise great difficulties, chiefly because they could obtain their raw material only in insufficient quantities and at high prices. The most important cigar factories and nearly all cigarette factories have been bought up by three stock companies, of which two have their seats in London and one in New York. The London firms are the Henry Clay and Bock & Company, Limited, and the Havana Cigar and Tobacco Factories, Limited, while the New York corporation is known under the name of the Havana Commercial Company. These three companies control 24 cigar and 6 cigarette factories. Of known and well-reputed factories which have not yet been acquired by the foreign concerns the more important are Cabanas y Carbajal, Eden and J. S. Murias, and also H. Upman. Everything else in the nature of industrial undertakings—as machine factories, dockyards which engage in the construction and repairing of smaller ships, gas and ice factories, breweries, ropewalks—is but of subordinate and merely local importance.

The general rise in values of securities which began in 1898 made further progress in 1899. This increase affected the loan issued by the city of Habana as well as railway securities. Three of the Cuban railways, with a total capital of $10,000,000, were acquired by the British corporation, Cuba Central Railways Company, Limited, and their shares were paid at par. Various new enterprises in the railway field are being planned, among others a central railway, which is to cross the entire length of the island from west to east. On the city railway system it is intended to introduce shortly electric powers. The dealing and operations of the existing banks, owing to the lively demand for securities, were quite extensive. In 1899 the North American Trust Company, of New York, and the Merchants' Bank, of Halifax, opened branches at Habana.

In commercial intercourse Spanish coins, both silver and gold, and silver and copper subsidiary coins, continued to circulate. All customs duties, however, and taxes were collected in American coin, the following official quotations being adopted for payments in Spanish coin:

	American dollars.
Alphonses, valued at	4.82
Luis, valued at	3.86
Silver dollar, valued at	.60
Fifty-cent piece, valued at	.30
Twenty-cent piece, valued at	.12
Ten-cent piece, valued at	.06
Copper 5-cent piece, valued at	.03

The cutting and grinding of cane began, as usual, in December, 1898, but only during the following January all the central factories in operation began full-time work. They remained busy until the month of May. The product yielded was, on the whole, little satisfactory, and the hopes entertained at the beginning of the season that the crop for the year 1899 would reach 400,000 to 450,000 tons were not fulfilled. The production amounted to only 336,000 tons as against 305,000 tons in 1898, an increase of about 11 per cent. Of the total production of 1899 about 290,000 tons were shipped almost exclusively to United States ports. During the year 1898 the exports to the United States amounted to 244,500 tons, and those to Spain to 6,599 tons—together to 251,000 tons. The sugar produced is mainly centrifugal sugar, the production of muscovado having ceased entirely. The price depends on the degree of polarization. Centrifugals polarize between 95° and 97°, 96° being taken as a basis. Refined sugar is manufactured for domestic consumption only, its quantity having diminished considerably owing to the decrease of the population. Molasses is shipped in steamers especially fitted for that purpose, and is marketed exclusively in the United States, the price being about 10 cents per gallon free on board.

The chief centers of the production of spirits are Matanzas, Cardenas, and Sagua la Grande. Rum is being produced on a number of sugar plantations. In former years, considerable quantities of this article went to Spain, Portugal, and South and Central America. At present the exports have considerably fallen off, mainly owing to the increase of import duties in the countries of destination, particularly Argentina. The larger part of the production is now being consumed within the island. The price of spirits of 22 per cent is $18 to $19 in barrels of 130 gallons, and $17 to $18 for 130 gallons exclusive of barrel.

Tobacco is bought most largely by the United States, and to a much smaller extent by Germany, Austria, France, Holland, and Belgium. Shipments to Spain ceased entirely during 1899, chiefly owing to the high prices prevailing during the year. The exports amounted to 14,950,000 pounds of raw tobacco and 408,000 pounds of cut tobacco, valued at $8,820,000. The export duty on the raw tobacco of the province of Santiago de Cuba, if exported through the custom-houses of Santiago, Gibara, and Manzanillo, is $2.20; for all other sorts of tobacco as well as raw tobacco exported at other ports, $6.30 per 100 kilograms net.

The products of cigar factories did not enjoy the unquestioned reputation of former years among the smoking public. This was due to the fact that owing to the revolutionary struggles many plantations producing normally the choicest grades had to be left without military protection because of their remoteness from the centers.

Only where such protection was sufficient tobacco was planted, and, as is well known, not every soil is suitable for the cultivation of this plant. As the cultivation of tobacco can now be again resumed without risk, the production of higher grades can be confidently expected. Prices were not increased, notwithstanding the shortage of the raw material; only the customary discounts were largely discontinued since the beginning of 1899. The total exports were 226,000,000 cigars, valued at $11,670,000. Out of this total, 153,260,000 cigars, worth $7,771,000, were exported to the United States. The rest, 77,000,000 cigars, worth $3,950,000, was divided up among the other countries. England and Germany are, next to the United States, the chief consumers of this article. The export duty on cigars is $1.35 per thousand.

The consumption of cigarettes has decreased considerably during 1899, as the Spanish army of over 100,000 men, as well as many Spaniards of civil life, all heavy cigarette smokers, quit the island in the beginning of the year. The exports decreased likewise, as compared with former years, since the shipments to the mother country fell off considerably, and the Porto Rico market after American occupation was closed to Cuba by high duties. Central and South America remain now the chief markets. Comparatively small quantities go to North America and Europe, where the Egyptian cigarette holds the field successfully against all other importations. The exports of cigarettes to the United States were valued at about $139,000, and those to other countries at about $183,000, giving a total of $322,000. The export duty on cigarettes is 90 cents per package of 1,000 pieces, and for "fine-cut" tobacco $3.75 per 100 kilograms.

According to data given by the bureau of statistics of Habana, the value of all commodities exported from this port during 1899 (exclusive of sugar) was estimated at $21,230,000, out of which $16,310,000 worth went to the United States.

The consumptive capacity of Cuba in proportion to its population is quite remarkable. To be sure, almost everything required for sustenance has to be obtained from abroad, sugar, and cigars being the only industries of the island deserving mention. The port of Habana alone received during 1899 $57,310,000 worth of merchandise, of which about one-half came from the United States, while the rest ($29,180,000) falls to the share of all other countries. * * * If to this amount is added the value of goods entered at the ports of Cienfuegos, Matanzas, Cardenas, and Santiago de Cuba, the total imports of Cuba during 1899 are likely to reach about $80,000,000.

Articles of food are the most important category among imports. The United States furnish the bulk of a number of articles, to wit, lard, flour, potatoes, corn, ham, eggs, condensed milk, and beer. The American breweries flooded the market with their product, but only a few succeeded in developing a demand for their so-called "lager beer." The American garrison troops are their chief customers. The imports of this article from the United States were 4,050,000 liters (1 liter = 0.908 quart), valued at about $636,000, those from Great Britain and Germany being 1,070,000 liters, worth $177,000. The prices obtained were as follows: English ale, per box of 84 pint bottles, $7.50 to $10; American product, per box of 24 pint bottles, $1 to $1.50; German product, $10.50 to $13 per box of 96 pint bottles.

American shoes have partly supplanted the Spanish article, formerly leading in the Cuba market. This is especially true of men's shoes of American manufacture, which are both cheap and of solid make. Ladies shoes are partly imported from France. For the year 1899 the imports were 3,780,000 pairs, valued at $2,370,000, of which the United States imported 657,000 pairs, worth $624,000.

The imports of paper and paper goods comprises writing, printing, and wrapping paper, also paper for decorating cigar boxes and for cigar labels. Spain and the United States are the chief exporting countries. For the year 1899 imports from the United States were 2,890,000 kilograms, worth $286,000, and those from other countries 4,840,000 kilograms, worth $614,000.

Agricultural implements are imported from Europe as well as the United States. Plows are largely imported from the United States. Cane knives, hatchets, and axes are to a great part of German origin. The total imports during the year in question were 1,705,034 kilograms, valued at $289,000, the United States' share being 1,160,000 kilograms, worth $197,000. Among cotton goods imported the chief classes are percale, calico, and drills. The first is largely used for women's dress and sells in large quantities, as well as calico. The English product is quite popular, and it will not be easy to supersede it. The total imports of all cotton goods in 1899 were 3,870,000 kilograms, valued at $4,820,000, of which the imports from the United States constituted 950,000 kilograms, valued at $1,680,000. Great Britain is also leading in the imports of linen and linen goods. The consumption is quite considerable—2,020,000 kilograms, valued at $1,520,000. The share of the United States was but 5 per cent of the total value of imports.

Woolen goods were imported to the value of $661,000, of which the United States furnished only $56,000 worth. The imported goods, mainly of English manufacture, were used mainly for men's clothing. The demand for silk goods is small, and is being met by France mainly. During 1899 the imports amounted to $341,000, those from the United States being $40,700.

Hats for ladies come largely from France. Those for men are furnished by Great Britain and the United States. The imports were 74,757 dozen, valued at $453,208, of which the United States furnished 11,208 dozen, worth $86,700.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term "entry for consumption" is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties have been paid on the dutiable portion.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in force, approved May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be "the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment."

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture. The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term "entry for consumption" is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties have been paid on the dutiable portion.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in force, approved May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be "the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment."

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture. The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.

EXPLANATION OF REGULAR STATISTICAL TABLES.

General imports.—The regular statement of imports of merchandise, by articles and countries, in this publication is what is termed the statement of general imports, embracing imported articles entered for immediate consumption on arrival and articles entered for warehouse.

The term "entry for consumption" is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties have been paid on the dutiable portion.

The values of articles imported are governed by the regulations in force, approved May 1, 1899, which prescribe that the values of imported merchandise subject to duty shall be "the actual market value or wholesale price of such merchandise as bought and sold in usual wholesale quantities at the time of exportation in the principal markets of the country whence imported, and in the condition in which such merchandise is there bought for exportation or consigned for sale, including the value of all cartons, cases, crates, boxes, sacks, and coverings of any kind, and all other costs, charges, and expenses incident to placing the merchandise in condition ready for shipment."

Domestic exports.—The regular statement of domestic exports, by articles and countries, in this publication exhibits the exports of domestic products or manufactures, also exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported or enhanced in value by further manufacture. The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their value at the time of exportation in the ports of the island whence they are exported.

Tonnage tables.—In the tables of tonnage movement the tonnage is stated in net tons of 100 cubic feet carrying space after the prescribed allowances are made for crew space, engine space, etc.
